Dear Planning Assessment Commission,

I have voiced my option twice before. Please make reference to those as I don't feel like writing it all again. This is the most drawn out decision in history it feels. How can people sleep at night while workers and the businesses that rely on this mine are awake all night stressed about having a job in the future. This is an existing mine. No great impact. Things can be done to make everyone happy if they want to be happy but some people are just whingers no matter what. I don't agree with any new mines in the queensland region that attract more ships and the protental of damage to the barrier reef. Let's get smart people. We need coal for steel still. Unless we are not going to build large building anymore. And if we start using more wood the greenies will start complaining about that

Yours sincerely,
Sally Cornall
