I live in the local area of [REDACTED], since 2007, have seen many changes and been through the 2019/2020 devastating fires and floods which spread through our region. Yes our population is increasing rapidly, with new housing estates and over 55's villages being built. Our beautiful bushland is slowly disappearing to make way for new houses being built by greedy developers.

We need to keep our national parks and native bushland areas logging free to keep the natural balance of our fragile eco system. To keep our natural wildlife habitats and food sources before it is too late and all our native animals become endangered as our koalas have. How sad would a world be when you can't see a koala or wombat in the wild?? We have to save our native bushland for the next generation and the next generations to come.
