Dear IPC Panel

With regard to GHD's letters dated 18th November:

1. Roller doors – can we have some real-world simulation rather than hypothetical estimates based on a supplier's website. In addition, has staff movement including transporting materials between buildings also been included in their calculations for when doors/windows will be open that may affect the "negative air pressure"?

GHD plans ignore human intervention that will have a major effect on operations.

2. Stay inside – the community are not stupid, yet GHD treat them as such. The consideration that there will always be a risk to air quality, staying indoors is not a solution, when minimising the risk in the first instance should be their priority. It is frustrating that it has fallen on the community to do GHD's job where they are the professionals, paid to perform, yet their performance is sadly lacking.

Kind Regards
