As a member of the local community, I am disgraced to see this project going ahead. The land that this factory will stand on today, has been looked after carefully and precisely for hundreds of years. To think that our efforts and care as well as environment will go down the drain pains me.

Although the commission has said that no plastic particles will flow from this factory into the air, I find it hard to believe. With calculations made from our community, the doors of this factory will be open 5 hours every day. Speaking of this, if the nearly certain chance of plastic escaping this development, there is a water catchment area only 10 metres away that these tiny little particles could go into, meaning that the community as well as Sydney people would be taking in plastic every time they drank water.

As most factories are, this development is highly flammable. As an area with little fire services, if a bush fire did break out, which down here can be likely sometimes, this would destroy everything. You may think we could call other towns but the closest fire services would be from Campbelltown which is usually a forty five minute drive away meaning that by the time they make it, a lot of residential homes would already be destroyed.

Not to mention that the plastic particles released from this development could and will damage this air forever. With the huge winds that the Southern Highlands carries, the plastic particles which have habited themselves in the air will push onto other towns like Wollongong.

Thank you for listening.
