I am 12 years old, and a student at [REDACTED] and last year, our class learned about Plasrefine as a class study to learn about it, as it is a major development within the Southern Highlands, where we live. As a part of the study, GHD came into our school and talked to us about the development and how/what they would be doing. When they came to our school, they did not address the issues the facility would pose, or even any potential issues. Of course, the class started asking questions, (e.g How will the facility affect our airways? How will the facility affect our waterways? What are you doing to prevent these issues?).

The people from GHD did not answer our question properly. They weren't prepared for our questions, and gave silly answers. When we asked them about the effects the facility would have on our native wildlife, they said ~We will set up a fence around the facility to prevent the wildlife from coming near'. How will a fence help the animals who have had their homes taken away from them? How will this create new homes for the animals? We didn't get our answers.

Plasrefine would be bringing over 120 000 tonnes of plastic into the Southern Highlands. How can they justify the impact that they will have on the roads, the air, the water, the wildlife, the homes, and the people living here? They can't, because what they have proposed is faulty and outrageous.
