To Whom it may concern

My husband and I moved to Wallacia 39yrs ago. Back then, Wallacia was, and still is, a lovely village. When we settled here, there wasn't much kerb and guttering, very poor telephone service, no mail service, no new estates, old shop and old petrol station. We have seen lots of very good progress. Blaxland Crossing was a great area for picnics, birthday parties, paddle boats and working bbq facilities. Standing room only of a weekend. Unfortunately, the powers to be have not maintained this area and it is no longer frequented as in our early days here. The little park on Murroobah Rd has been updated but could certainly do with some more challenging equipment, as my Grandies keep telling me. New estates have been established, most streets now have kerb and guttering, we no longer have to collect our mail as we have a very good delivery system and no more party lines on the telephone network. All these have been very good for our little village. More shops and a larger petrol station as well.

But a Cemetery!!!!!!!!!! We don't feel that this is progress and in the best interest of the residents of Wallacia. Wallacia Golf Club is within walking distance for all residents not just for a game of golf but for a lot of people a great place to enjoy a meal with fantastic views. We have already lost Blaxland Crossing as a recreation place, swimming and paddles boats, we do not want another place to go. The roads will be more congested. They are already a nightmare with trucks etc. In our eyes there does not appear to be any positives for allowing the Cemetery to go ahead. I hope you consider this very carefully and listen to the residents of Wallacia. Yours,
