Moss Vale is not the right site for Plasrefine. As a resident who lives less than 1.5km away from the proposed site with my family I fear my family will be directly impacted by the pollution created by Plasrefine. My young children have a right to clean air, free from microplastic, how will their health be affected in the future? The safe walking area that we would walk as a family on Beaconsfield Road and Lackey Rad will now be risky with the numerous trucks coming day and night. We will have to stay indoors, as the air outside won't be safe for my children to play. I work at an education facility where lots of play and exercise is conducted outside, how will the children's health at my workplace be compromised. As a home owner will the value of my home go down, when I want to move out of the area to protect my family's health, will I be able to sell at a reasonable price, who would want to buy a house so close to a Plastic factory? This is a regional area/semi rural area, but there is residential area right near the site. There are plenty of other location this factory could go. Why should my family and the residents of Moss Vale and the surrounding Southern Highlands be the guinea pigs of unknown health problems due to this factory, that all other Sydney communities get the benefit from. However once the microplastic gets in our waters than everyone will be effected. If the factory goes up in flame, the area does not have enough Fire fighting resources to protect the homes nearby, will my family, pets and home be at risk? Moss Vale is not the right site for Plasrefine.
