I feel the Location isn't right, the impact the development and future running of that facility will directly impact local homes local land and local businesses and huge impact on the garvan institute how can they provide medical services and support with live animals with that plastic joint going in there is so many Locations that it could go. But the southern highlands is definitely not it. The traffic alone will be a nightmare it's already bad with general population growth with this place. We have natural water resources wildlife not worth risking all that just for some bloody plastic that's not even ours
