I am firmly opposed to the project on the basis that

- the development is proposed by a firm with a patchy environmental record,*
- coming from a country in which environmental concerns are habitually ignored in pursuit of profit,*
- employing a process with which it has no track record of success or risk management,*
- refusing to provide full detail on key elements of that process,*
- in a location in close proximity to prime agricultural land; residential dwellings; schools, parks and recreational facilities; and in the direct catchment for Sydney's water supply.*

This is in addition to the specific concerns raised by affected residents, schools, primary producers, health care professionals, and other subject matter experts raised during the public hearing process.

*My understanding is that residents have been told they can stay inside to avoid pollution on windy days. Notwithstanding the fact that the Southern Highlands is a persistently windy location, this is indicative of an approach to social and environmental well being well known to me from time in ****.*

Surely we can do better for our children than this.
