My concerns are that the company proposing to carry out these works have no experience. This is their first attempt at running business. Why choose a location that is close to residence and a town. The infrastructure in Moss Vale will not cater for the traffic. The air quality will be affected impacting on the environment, should be located in the desert. Maybe the bureaucrats in polluted Sydney should come down here and have a look at the pristine area they want this polluting factory to be built, if they saw for themselves they might change their mind. The potential impact to the greater Sydney area through the water system, Warragamba dam should not be ignored. How can a company with no track record or experience gain approval, which government personnel are receiving kickbacks, obviously money wins over people's health, good luck NSW Government getting re-elected next election
