Its just not the appropriate site and I presume its been chosen as its halfway between Sydney and Canberra and therefore more business for the company. The highlands are beautiful and attract many visitors from Sydney and Canberra who want to get away from industrialisation for a day or two. The area just doesn't need this type of industry and the farming in the area needs to be maintained as it is already losing a proportion to large housing developments. Its part of the areas charm, a plastic recycling plant is not.
