*My husband and I as well as other local Southern Highlanders that we know are all very concerned about the prospect of the Plasrefine facility being built so close to the beautiful region in which we call home. I am sure many more locals would be objecting if they were aware of this plan as well and I am sure you will get many more complaints after the recent public discussions at Bowral Memorial Hall. The proposed site in Mossvale is the wrong choice for such a facility and the toll that such a large scale operation would cause to the community is immense. The proposed site is one of Highlands bucolic beauty that should not be scared by a huge ugly factory. The beauty of our region is what brings tourists here from far and wide and the thought of this piece of land being made into an industrial eyesore makes me very disheartened indeed. This site is too close to existing long term residents and the huge amount of local traffic it would induce would put a real strain on our local roads. Most of all I am extremely concerned about the health impacts the building of this plant would create. The thought of extremely strong polluting industrial chemicals and microplastics that will be sent into our country air and currently filled-to-the-brim-with-wildlife-waterways from this development makes me feel physically ill. I do not like the fact that such a company would be run by a mysterious * business owner and I think what is intended as an environmental solution for NSW will turn into an environmental disaster! Reduce instead of recycle to me seems like a much better agenda to push. We managed it 100 years ago, people can get used to a non plastic way of living again. If indeed recycling needs to be done let it be done in a appropriate location away from big residential areas. Thank you for your time in reading this.*
