I oppose the development of Plasrefine Recycling's plastics reprocessing facility in Moss Vale town centre. This area, located near residential streets and vital creek systems that feed into Sydney's water supply, is an unsuitable location for such a large-scale industrial operation. The existing roads are already heavily congested, and the added traffic from facility-related transport would only worsen this issue, impacting the safety and quality of life for local residents. Additionally, the surrounding farmland, which supports local agriculture, could be adversely affected by the environmental risks associated with plastic reprocessing. This proposal poses a serious threat to both our community and the integrity of our water and natural resources. I urge you to reconsider this location and protect Moss Vale and its residents.
