Hello, Thank you for reading my submission. As a graduate of Building Biology studies I am very concerned about the potential risks to human health which may result from increased traffic and factory emissions. Toxic residue can be especially harmful to older citizens, and there are many older people in this area. Increased noise pollution from traffic and operations can also have a harmful effect on our community. In the city people expect noise pollution, but in regional areas like the Southern Highlands there is a natural expectation of reduced noise and traffic.

In addition to health impacts, I believe this facility will contribute to a serious degradation of the natural beauty and country feel of the Southern Highlands area. The Southern Highlands has a long history as a place to escape the noise and pollution of Sydney. It is a special place that should be protected from heavy industry so that current and future generations can continue to enjoy it as a place of respite and relaxation.
