I object to the proposed facility due to environmental, traffic and health concerns for the local community and my family who reside nearby to the proposed site.

I will start with health PFAS is a very real and very devastating thing for health, I personally know three people who have passed away as a result of PFAS accumulation and exposure. The community does not want this stuff near us or contaminating a major source of drinking water for the Sydney catchment. PFAS research indicates it as a forever chemical which accumulates in humans and animals over time and does not leave the body.

Then there is fumes from the site where its indicated people nearby limit exposure outside. The whole purpose of people moving to this area and away from populated and industrialised centres was for the fresh air and to enjoy time outside. Now they are being told if this proposal goes ahead that a very real and great potential is there to have time limits on being outside. This is not on!

Then there is the traffic aspect adding 100 trucks each day to our already poor roads and infrastructure in the area would be detrimental. Adding this traffic will cause more damage to existing roadways through the creation of more defects in the roadway which are primarily caused by heavy vehicles and poor maintenance. More defects in the roadways mean more people swerving to go around said defects which then increases the likelihood of a fatal or serious injury accident involving a heavy vehicle. The traffic in the area is already at breaking point during peak times without adding another 100 truck to the mix.

Land choice, out of all the land available within Australia why in an area where many people have made a lifestyle choice to move to for the country life and air. There is plenty of land out there that could be occupied by such facility and not be anywhere near homes, schools, causing catastrophic traffic drama etc so why not consider that?

I personally feel that nobody is listening to what the community wants- Our Council has said NO, Our Community says NO, and I say NO! This speaks volumes yet the NSW State Government continues to forge ahead with the plan with no regards for those that live here.

I can't help but think this site has been chosen as a result of a Political game as the Liberal Party currently occupy the state seat here. Why not put it in a Labor area? Remember the residents get to vote at the next state election and one thing I do know is people here have long memories.

I have only scratched the surface and no doubt your in receipt of more in depth responses which I fully support.

We don't want it, so I urge you to listen because if this goes ahead you will single handedly destroy what most people describe here as Gods Country.
